

Chapter 1: The Founding

The Riverbend Archive was founded in the year 1887 by the librarian Cornelius Hatchgrove. Its first acquisition was a collection of maritime maps.

Chapter 2: The Great Flood

In 1923 a great flood damaged the lower vaults. The chief conservator at the time, Mabel Thornquist, salvaged 4,200 documents over eleven days.

Chapter 3: The Quiet Years

Between 1940 and 1962 the archive saw little activity. A single notable event was the donation of the Pemberton letters by an anonymous benefactor.

Chapter 4: Modernization

The archive was digitized starting in 1998 using a custom scanner nicknamed The Beast. The project lead was Dr. Ignatius Vellum, who indexed 90,000 pages.

Chapter 5: Present Day

Today the Riverbend Archive holds over 1.2 million items. Its current director is Seraphina Oakhollow, appointed in 2021.
